Management Structure Reorganization

In May 1990 the Chief of Staff of the Air Force directed a reduction in the size of Air Force management structure, in other words, all organizations that performed headquarters responsibilities. In ATC's case, this included the training operations center, the 3313th Medical Service Squadron, and portions of the 3305th School Squadron, the 3307th Test and Evaluation Squadron, and the 3308th Technical Training Squadron. In order to meet reduction goals, some of the DCSs combined functions. Two special staff agencies, the Office of the Inspector General and the Security Police, reorganized, with the Security Police becoming a directorate under the IG. Many of the direct reporting units assigned to the headquarters were reassigned as a part of the newly-activated 3300th Training Support Group, and others like the 3313th Medical Service and the 3314th Management Engineering Squadrons were inactivated. The 12 management engineering teams scattered throughout ATC became subordinate to resource management organizations at the technical training centers and flying training wings. The majority of these organizational changes took place on 1 October 1990. Overall, HQ ATC would cut 397 authorizations from its management structure over the next three years.

3300th Training Support Group 1990

The command activated the 3300th Training Support Group at Randolph AFB, Texas, on 1 October and assigned it to HQ ATC. At the same time, ATC reassigned nine of its direct reporting units to the 3300th: the 3302d Technical Training Squadron, the 3303d Contracting Squadron, the 3304th School Squadron (ATC NCO Academy), the 3305th School Squadron, the 3507th Airman Classification Squadron, the 3306th Training Development and Evaluation Squadron, the USAF Occupational Measurement Squadron (formerly a center), the 3307th Test and Evaluation Squadron (Acquisition Management), and the 3308th Technical Training Squadron (Advisory).

338th Training Support Group

The 3300th Training Support Group, which reported directly to HQ ATC, was redesignated as the 338th Training Support Group on 15 September.
